Issue No. 10

THE FALKLANDS ARE BRITISH!

WITHOUT DOUBT the conflict in the South Atlantic has been the biggest news story in years. The mass media have gone overboard in their coverage of the Falklands dispute, giving continual updates on all the latest developments as and when they occured.

It is, however, not the intention of Nationalism Today to give an in-depth run down of what has happened in the South Atlantic. This has been done already by the mass media. Our intention is not to explain what has happened but why it happened and what fundamental principles are involved.

The question of why the war between Britain and Argentina erupted in the first place is discussed in the special Falklands feature on page four of this issue. But the fundamental principles involved are straightforward and completely non-negotiable: The Falkland Islands are British!

They are British simply because the people of the Falklands wish them to be British. They are NOT British because of any imperialist claim on the islands by the British government. Any imperialism carried out against the wishes of subject peoples is immoral and cannot be justified.

Thus it can be seen that it is Argentina and not Britain which is guilty of imperialism. It is Argentina which whishes to annex a foreign territory. It is Argentina which whishes to subject the population of the Falklands – against their wishes – to an alien and reactionary regime. Argentina is the imperialist aggressor! Britain is merely looking after the interests of the islanders.

The Falklanders have a right to self-determination. They are determined to remain British and it is up to us to ensure that they are able to do so!

Welcome back, Joe!

ON MAY 12th, our Assistant Editor, Joe Pearce, was released after four months in Chelmsford Prison. His 'crime'? Telling the truth about Black crime in Britain. Such is the System's 'democracy'.

Joe's spirit is unbroken by his ordeal. Indeed, his determination to smash the rotten System which jails those critics it cannot answer has only been hardened. Welcome back, Joe!

IMMIGRANTS AND IMMIGRATION

MARKS AND SPARKS

MARKS AND SPENCERS have 260 stores in Britain. Many of them are in Black riot zones such as Brixton. M. & S. managers are already very nervous about the prospect of more trouble this summer.

The Jewish manager of the Brixton branch of the chainstore is at the centre of the grovelling "We're Backing Brixton" campaign. This also involves Boots, several Banks and other large firms. It is supported by Ted Knight, the supposedly anti-Capitalist leader of Lambeth council and by £100,000 from the Department of the Environment. Lord Sieff, Chairman of M. & S. has also taken a strong personal interest.

But Lord Sieff is not trying to help the Blacks just to stop them tearing his shops apart. He has always had a strong interest in the multi-racial cause. In fact, the Sieff's helped to create the multi-racial society in the first place.

Way back in the 1930's, Israel Sieff set up the shadowy group known as "Political and Economic Planning". This was an unofficial 'think tank' whose research and recommedations carried a great deal of weight with successive governments.

Secret organisations like P.E.P. do not like to operate openly, but a glimpse of its work was provided by the White Paper which led to the strengthening of the Race Act. This acknowledged that the Government was deeply indebted to P.E.P. for its "research assistance".

Brixton manager awaits new riots.

The Executive Committee of P.E.P., which has now changed its name to the "Policy Studies Institute", included Marcus Sieff. Another member of the Marks and Spencers tribe, David Sieff, was for years a leading Council member of the neo-Marxist Institute for Race Relations.

So it is really ironic when Marks and Sparks go up in flames during Black riots. Perhaps Lord Sieff could stop it happening by explaining to the Blacks that he helped to bring them here in the first place. Trouble is, his shops would then get burnt to the ground by Whites.

RACE BOSS IS PART BLACK

THE new supremo to take over the job of chairman of the Commission for Racial Equality from David Lane, has been appointed. He is 53 year old Peter Newsam pictured above. Newsam takes over the £475 per week job in September.

Presently Newsam is in charge of the Inner London Education Authority, where he is notorious for promoting race-mixing in schools and for giving teachers paid time off to attend the funeral of the Trotskyite teacher, Blair Peach.

Newsam should find himself quite at home in the CRE – he describes himself as an immigrant – he had a West Indian grandfather.

At a press conference Newsam blamed "problem Whites" for everything. He also vowed to take a "tough line with White organisations".

Newsam is also an ardent supporter of "positive discrimination" (jobs for Blacks – not for Whites).

"TEACH URDU IN OUR SCHOOLS"

BENGALI is now the most commonly spoken foreign language in the 1,150 schools of inner London. An ILEA survey showed that 131 languages are now spoken other than English.

In the last four years, the number of pupils speaking Bengali has risen by a horrifying 50%.

In some schools in the City of London and Tower Hamlets, more than 80% of the pupils are Bengalis. Many of them cannot speak English at all. Teachers have to spend hours explaining simple English phrases and so have less time to give to the few British pupils who are left.

The reaction of the National Union of Teachers has not been to call for the halt to immigration or even to press for more English lessons. Instead an NUT report has just said that Urdu, Punjabi and Gujerati should be taught in schools alongside English.

The report went on "it is of the greatest importance that a child's home culture, including language, should be seen to be valued by the school".

Trendy teachers are very keen on giving young Blacks and Asians a sense of their identity. Sadly, they treat White pupils differently.

NUT members frequently demand that history books should be re-written to play down White British achievements and ignore great moments in our national past. "Black Pride" is good, but White Pride is evil racialism.

MORE MONEY FOR BRIXTON

THE BLACKS of Brixton are to get a new coffee bar and social centre as part of a massive government-financed "improvement" scheme.

The new amenities will be based around the Railton Road/Mayall Road area – flashpoints in the race riots of last summer.

Other moves at helping the Blacks in the Brixton area include a £75,000 grant to a Rastafarian group which runs employment training schemes for youngsters.

The Black-dominated Brixton Domino Club is to get £80,000 for a new clubhouse, and £50,000 is to go on a "cultural and counselling" centre run by West Indians.

The schemes are just part of the improvements to be funded from the Department of Environment's £12.5 million Inner City Partnership grant to Lambeth this year.

THE WAR IN THE FALKLANDS

Defence Cuts to blame for the Conflict

BRITAIN is now paying the price for Tory and Labour defence cuts. This has led to drastic reductions in all the services.

The Navy has been the hardest hit. All future building of capital ships has been cancelled. Work on new missile defences has been slashed. Dockyards have been run down, throwing thousands of skilled men on the dole.

Had the Argentinians struck a few months later, much of the Navy's Task Force, including the carriers "Hermes" and "Invincible", would have been scrapped or sold to foreigners.

The RAF's run-down has been so severe that we do not even have enough planes to defend our own islands. Many planes lie idle due to lack of spare parts. Production of new planes has been slowed down. The Air Force, like the Army, is suffering because of severe rationing in fuel and ammunition.

Everything came to a head over the Falklands. After allowing the islands to fall with only the minimum protection (one UNARMED ship and 80 Marines), the government had to scrape the barrel to get our Task Force down there. Our politicians have a lot to answer for.

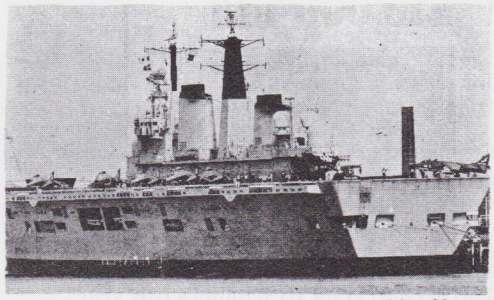
INSANE

The run down of our convential forces has been made worse by the Tories' insane decision to buy the American Trident nuclear missile system.

Trident will syphon off a massive £7,500 million from the defence budget, which necessitates huge cuts in our conventional forces.

Money is not the only thing that has to be sacrificed. Trident is as yet untried and will take years to come into service. During the waiting period, Britain will have to rely even more on our 'friend' America for nuclear coverage. As has already been pointed out in NT, this is definitely not the sort of 'protection' Britain needs.

The Falklands have shown that the guarantor of Britain's independence and freedom is a wholly British built and controlled conventional AND nuclear defence force, large enough to deter any aggressor.



H.M.S. Invincible – due to be sold off.

This Special Feature on the conflict in the South Atlantic seeks to explain why the whole affair erupted in the first place. Had it not been for the treachery of politicians at home, then the Falkland Islanders would not have had to endure an Argentinian invasion, and British servicemen would not have been killed in the fight to free them.

Political Shambles

THE first thing that should be said is that a situation should never have arisen which permitted the invasion of British territory.

For years now, British governments have let it be known that they were prepared to sell out the Falklands on a "softly, softly" basis, preferring to show weakness and cowardice rather than strength and determination in the face of the enemy.

The Foreign Office, under whose jurisdiction the Falklands are administered, has been shown yet again to be the biggest bunch of traitors (Philby and Blunt to name just two) this country has ever seen. For these decadent ex-public schoolboys the Falklands were an embarrassing nuisance that was disturbing their quiet life. Thathcher's arch-crony Carrington (whose only claim to 'fame' was handing over the Whites in Rhodesia to Black Marxist terrorists) was an obvious choice to head this bunch of cretins – preferring to spend the days before the invasion in Israel. His resignation was years too late, the damage was already done.

USELESS AND CORRUPT

This lack of action and the run-down of our defences, greatly encouraged the Argentine Junta to attack the defenceless islands and seize their enormous potential oil, mineral and fishing reserves.

Yet again, young workers in uniform are being put into the front line to bail out our totally useless and corrupt politicians.

Thatcher, in running down our forces and relying instead on effete diplomats and 'World Opinion', forgot the old saying: "political power grows out of the barrel of a gun".

Britain's Reactionary Enemy in the South Atlantic

THE political and economic state of Argentina leading up to the invasion was disastrous.

The rule of the military junta has brought 200% inflation, lengthening dole queues, urban decay and the suppression of trade union and individual rights. It is quite clear that the junta embarked upon the invasion, to divert attention from troubles at home.

Every Argentine government has used the Falklands to drum up support for itself when faced with internal problems.

The only exception was when the legendary Peron governed. Because of his radical social Nationalism – clamping down on big business, banks and the multi-nationals, with more money spent on schools, hospitals and welfare – Peron was so successful that he only had to make nominal claim to the Falklands. Because of these 'sins', he too became the victim of a military coup.

Despite the fact that Argentina is ruled by an extreme right wing military dictatorship, she has struck up many surprising friends.

CAPITALIST/COMMUNIST LINKS

She is a major part of the world Capitalist network. With the crushing of the trade unions, lack of health and pollution laws and strong-arm police, she is ideal for big business to make handsome profits. Western Banks have lent her so much that her debt to them is larger than Poland's!

On the other hand she is the largest supplier of grain and beef to Russia. In return, apart from supplying her with intelligence on Britain's Task Force and supporting the invasion, Russia is about to supply her with MiG fighters. Incidentally, the Argentinian Communist Party fully supports the invasion.

She has a large and prosperous Zionist community. The backbone of her Air Force – the "Dagger" fighter – and her gunboats, are Israeli built.

All in all, quite an achievement for a right-wing dictatorship. And it is this dictatorship which subjected 1800 Britons to political and cultural persecution for a full month before the Tories turned from words to action.

President Galtieri – reactionary thug.

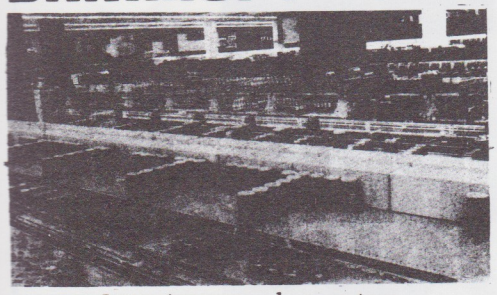
GIANT SUPERSTORES ARE BANKRUPTING SMALL CORNER SHOPS



Large impersonal superstore.

EVER wonder why the old corner shops are now closed and boarded up? These little shops were once at the heart of tight-knit communities, each run by its independent owner who knew most of the customers by name. Now they are nearly all gone.

Many have been taken over by grasping Pakistani businessmen who get low interest loans, use cheap family labour and are allowed by councils to stay open on Sundays.

Many more have been driven out of business by unfair competition from big chain-stores such as Sainsbury's and Fine Fare.

Even worse is the effect of the growing number of "superstores". These shops are so large that families can buy everything they need for several weeks in one visit. Because of their huge turnover, they can undercut the prices of many similar retailers.

There are now 318 superstores in Britain and 40 more will be built in the coming year. Tesco's alone own 70.

It is true that they are convenient and cheap. But they are only convenient for people with cars. As they force the small corner shops out of business, pensioners and people without transport are left stranded.

And of course, the millionaire Jews and Capitalists who own the superstores only keep the prices low for long enough to drive their smaller competitors to the wall. Once they get a monopoly, prices shoot up.

COMMUNITY LIFE

Within a few years the small shopkeeper will be extinct. The only way this trend can be reversed is for a Nationalist government to expropriate the giant supermarkets and lease or sell each section, such as green-grocery or meat, to a private individual.

Many people who are today condemned to remain as till assistants and shelf-stackers would then have the satisfaction and independence of running their own business and making a real contribution to community life.

AMERSHAM: Another Rip-Off

IN February, the government sold off to speculators and big business the state owned company, Amersham International.

Amersham was a small but very important company, specialising as it does in producing radio-active material for use in medical and scientific work. It also plays an important part in Britain's nuclear weapons production.

It is the kind of industry we need more of as it is highly advanced and completely British owned.

As its go-between the government used two merchant banks, Rothschilds and Morgan Grenfell. For this piece of dirty work they netted over £1 million between them.

However the Tories even made a cock-up of the sale. The share price was greatly undervalued, resulting in great profits for the speculators and other sharks in the Stock Exchange.

Amersham doesn't augur well for future Tory sell outs. Already the speculators and big business are slavering at the mouth at the thought of how much money they can make when Zionist Treasury Secretary, Leon Brittan, sells off other important British assets — North Sea oil and gas.

Britain can't afford to see important assets sold off just to appease the Tory god of profit. A Nationalist government must re-nationalise all such assets stolen from the British people.

EDUCATION: More Tory Cuts

THE Tory cuts in higher education are threatening the survival of Britain as a high technology nation. Biogen, the world's leading company in the vital new field of biotechnology, has said that it will not open a laboratory in Britain because of the way universities are being cut.

47,000 student places are being chopped, although we already educate a smaller proportion of youngsters over 18 than our industrial competitors.

This growing shortage of high-technology skills means that Britain will fall further and further behind countries such as Japan, Germany and the USA.

Mrs. Thatcher's short-sightedness threatens to turn Britain into an industrial desert and makes new technology, once so full of hope, the curse of our poverty stricken nation.

Waking Up To The Truth

IAN MIKARDO M.P. — Labour too is riddled with Zionists.

"THE JEWS' propaganda effort is very strong indeed. They produce several newspapers that are of national importance to Britain as a whole. It is a known fact that they have a very strong influence all over Britain."

The author of these words is not an NF member or some 'sinister Right-Wing extremist fanatic'. It is Labour City Councillor in Dundee Colin Rennie, interviewed recently by Arabic London-based newspaper Ad-Destour.

Nor is Councillor Rennie alone in his views. The Scottish city's mayor, Lord Provost James Gowans, told the same paper: "The mass media is in the hands of the Zionists." Dundee City Council's ruling Labour group have voted in the last few months to 'twin' Scotland's third biggest city with the Israeli-occupied Arab town of Nablus and fly the flag of the Palestine Liberation Organisation from the City Hall.

Councillor Rennie has also announced that the newly-formed TUC-Palestine group will "specialise in getting rid of any Zionist influence and replacing their statements with the historical truths", a process which seems certain to bring this trades union body sooner or later to confront the biggest false "Zionist statement", the 'Holocaust' hoax, with the historical truth that it never happened.

INFILTRATED

Already, though, the awakening of a city's Labour Movement from the lie-soaked stupor in which the Movement nationally has lain since it was infiltrated and taken over by Zionists in the first decade of this century has sent a chill of fear through the alen octopus. Labour's leaders nationally have been whipped up to condemn their Dundee comrades whilst the sinister Zionist Board of Deputies cries "anti-Semitism" ever louder.

If this does not silence the intrepid Councillors they can, no doubt, expect the full barrage of media 'exposes' of them as Hitler worshippers, terrorists, synagogue desecrators and eaters of Jewish babies. That, as we in the NF have found, is the price of telling the truth about the Zionist liars.

"Ban The Bomb" Hypocrisy Revealed

WHILST the campaign for Nuclear Disarmament gathers strength throughout Western Europe and Britain, the authorities in East Germany have launced a campaign to stamp out a youth "peace movement" corresponding to CND in their territory.

The East German Government denounced the "swords into ploughshares" badge worn by East German anti-Bomb protestors – the equivalent of the Western nuclear disarmers' 'chicken's footprint' death-rune badge – as "a symbol of anti-State views". Those East Germans caught wearing anti-Bomb badges have been detained and interrogated by the police and later threatened with expulsion from school or the sack from work. A petition signed by over 4,000 young East Germans calling for a 'peace service' to be set up as an alternative to compulsory military service has also been angrily denounced by the Communist authorities.

PEACE GESTURES

These moves to crush their own nuclear disarmers whilst loudly praising ours show the hypocrisy of 'peace gestures' by Eastern Bloc countries. It also reveals Britain's CND and other similar movements abroad as lackeys, unwitting or not, of the East whose effect if successful would be to leave us defenceless whilst they keep the Bomb. Stage-managed 'disarmament demonstrations' in Communist countries are clearly a fraud, since these countries – not unreasonably from their point of view – have no intention of disarming or of permitting genuine popular movements demanding that they do so within their own borders.

But nonetheless whilst CND are wrong to demand that Britain abandon her nuclear defence capability, they are right to warn of the dangers of our nation being annihilated as an expendable American pawn in a conflict between Zionist America and Communist Russia. Britain's Bomb is for the defence of Britain's people, not Reagan's plutocrats!

Greenland Quits The Common Market

JUBILANT Greenlanders staged torchlight processions recently to celebrate their country's decision to withdraw from the Common Market.

The inhabitants voted by 52 per cent. to 46 in a referendum to quit the E.E.C.

Greenland, at 850,000 square miles, is more than twice as big as the rest of the EEC put together, but with a population of only 50,000 was reluctantly taken into the Market by Denmark in 1973. But the Greenlanders won home rule in 1979 and since then they have been working towards withdrawal.

The country is 2,000 miles from the European mainland and the residents resent what they see as unjustified interference with their fishing rights by Common Market partners with whom they do not identify.

A third of the labour force works in the fishing industry and fish accounts for 55% of the country's exports – but under EEC rules, their traditionally exclusive fishing grounds were reduced to a 12-mile coastal margin.

Thus Greenland becomes the first state to quit the EEC since its formation in 1957. Let's hope that Britain is not too far behind.

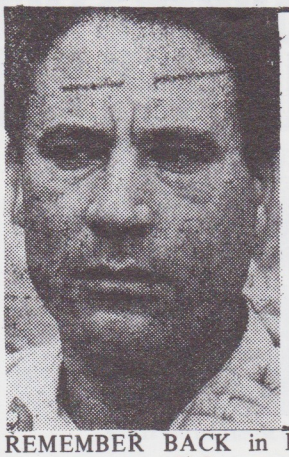
GADAFFI IS INNOCENT OK



Gadaffi: opposed to Zionism.

REMEMBER BACK in December of last year when the U.S. government announced that the radical Arab nation of Libya had dispatched a "hit squad" of 12 veteran terrorists to assassinate Ronald Reagan and other top American leaders?

Sketches of five of the terrorists were produced, along with the information that they were to infiltrate into the United States by slipping across the U.S.-Mexican border.

The affair made front-page headlines for several days and millions of Americans – including President Reagan – were convinced that the lives of many U.S. leaders were actually in jeopardy.

It all seemed so real. Only it wasn't!

According to information first published in the Los Angeles Times and later confirmed elsewhere, Israeli intelligence, not the Reagan regime, was the major source of the "most dramatic" reports about the suspected plot.

The L. A. Times also revealed that Israel deliberately fed the United States false information "to build American public support for a strike against" Libyan leader Muammar Gadaffi.

It is widely known that the Jews have been eager to move against Gadaffi – a militant, hardline and effective opponent of Zionism – for quite some time.

In spreading such inflammatory fabrications and lies about the anti-Zionist Gadaffi government, the Jews apparently hoped to trick the United States into launching an attack against Libya for them – or to at least receive American support for a strike of their own.

A U.S. attack against Libya would have seriously injured American relations with the Arab world and could have threatened not only peace in the Middle East, but world peace as well.

The motive behind the "assassination" scare-story, its possible world consequences, and the way the story was conveyed in the Jewish-controlled "American" media, indicate just to what lengths the Jews are prepared to go in order to maintain the illegal, bandit state of Israel!

'DR NO': A CAPITALIST YES MAN

IN March of this year in South Africa, there took place an apparently earth shattering event: the defection from the ruling National Party of a substantial number of M.P.'s and the creation of a new Conservative Party under the leadership of Dr. Andries Treurnicht.

The Press world-wide indulged in an orgy of literary abuse, describing Treurnicht as "an ultra nationalist" and "an extreme right wing hardliner". Dubbing him "Dr. No", they assaulted their readerships with lurid stories that suggested the rebellion against the reformist Botha regime would lead to a return of Dr. Verwoerd's "politics of despair". (Dr. Verwoerd was a racial-nationalist of the first order). "We must stop this evil!" cried "world opinion".

Predictably, the reactionary Right wing around the world praised Treurnicht, seeing in him the last great hope for White South Africans in their struggle against Communism and race perversion.

BEWARE

For several good reasons all racial nationalists should be wary of this development.

Of course, Botha's selling out of the White man at the behest of Jewish Big Business magnate Harry Oppenheimer is to be opposed, but is Treurnicht the man to back?

In the last general election, the Herstigte National Party, (H.N.P.) a genuine racial nationalist organisation, made a tremendous electoral breakthrough gaining 14% of the vote. The swing to the HNP was a result of Botha's policies and the Jews knew this. The problem was to stop the HNP, but at the same time continue the sellout. Clearly, the best method was to divert support for the HNP into a political dead-end; Treurnicht's party is that dead-end.

"RESPECTABLE"

The "South African" Press, which most citizens distrust, by strongly attacking the new Party hopes to lead many innocent South Africans into switching their support from the "fascist HNP" to the "extreme, but respectable" party of Treurnicht.

Treurnicht is a conman in the mould of Ian Smith. If he were genuine he would have realised that there was no need for a new party; by joining the HNP he could have dealt a virtual deathblow to Oppenheimer's designs on the Cape.

It must also be remembered that Treurnicht is a member of the Broederbond, a shadowy secret society which, although it claims to be patriotic, has consistently worked hand in glove with race traitors and capitalists, and until recently excluded from membership anyone connected with the HNP.

In short, Treurnicht's party is a safety valve for racemixing Big Business; it will be a movement of noise, but no action.

Racial Nationalism is anti-communist, anti-racemixing and anti-capitalist; in S.A. the only party that fits the bill is the HNP! South Africa must say No! to Dr. No!

BIG DADDY ON THE SKIDS

UGANDA is sinking deeper into Chaos, with further reports of massacres, looting, rape and other atrocities committed by the soldiers of President Milton Obote and anti-Obote guerillas.

But ex-Ugandan Leader Idi Amin has higher concerns. In an appeal issued from his refuge in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, where he is in exile with one of his wives and 23 children, the former President and Field Marshal asked the Muslim world for money "to buy weapons for the liberation of my country and to pay tuition fees for my children".

"My people are fighting heroically under dire conditions, and my own children here will be expelled from school because I cannot pay their tuition fees," the Man of Destiny went on, echoing similar recent pleas for cash from other ex-Leaders on the financial skids.

Many Ugandans are now thought to be ready to welcome the return of 'Big Daddy', inspired not only by heroic and disinterested rallying cries such as the above from their ex-Leader but by the consideration that Amin's soldiers only butchered Amin's enemies, whilst Obote's army slaughters anyone who gets in its way or attracts the greed of some of its members.

PRISONERS DIED IN JAP TORTURE TESTS

A SECRET unit of the Japanese Army killed Allied prisoners of war in germ warfare, gassing and other medical experiments, during the last war, the Japanese Government officially admitted on April 7th.

Over 3,000 Allied PoW's died at the hands of Lt. General Shiro Ishii's Unit 731 at a death camp in Harbin, Manchuria, it was revealed in the Japanese Parliament. 3559 Japanese soldiers and civilians were engaged in testing deadly diseases, poisons and gasses on our PoW's in the unit, known as the "Devil's Gluttony". The PoW's "mostly failed to survive" the medical experiments carried out on them.

The death camp commander, Lt. Gen. Ishii, not only was not prosecuted for his war crimes by the Americans in return for information about the results of his horrifying 'experiments', but received £45,000 in pensions from the Jap Government for his 'war-service' – torturing people to death. The whole affair was hushed up, only being exposed recently by a Japanese writer in a sensational book about his country's war crimes.

This is typical of the lenient treatment the Japanese got off with after the war. It was a marked contrast to the way thousands of German soldiers and civilians were shot, hung, tortured and starved to death after their surrender.

But there again, the Japanese victims were only Britons, Americans and Koreans. The supposed victims of the Germans belonged to a minority which considers itself to be altogether more important.

Same old story

ARMAND HAMMER, Chairman of the Occidental Petroleum Corporation, and Kong Xun, Chairman of the Communist China Coal Development Corporation, have signed a deal whereby the Capitalist corporation is to investigate the feasibility of mining 15 million tons of coal a year for the Communists.

Such profitable deals with Communists are nothing new to Armand Hammer. Though one of the World's richest Capitalists, and the very embodiment of every plutocratic evil the Reds say they want to destroy, Hammer has been a personal friend as well as a lucrative business associate of Lenin, Stalin and Brezhnev. His Occidental Petroleum combine has done much to keep the tottering economies of Soviet Russia and Red China going.

The career of Armand Hammer, the Capitalist crony of Communist tyrants, gives the lie to Red claims to be a "revolutionary alternative to Capitalism".

How Capitalism Destroys Your 'Pint'

BEER is a subject dear to the hearts of many Nationalists, as can be seen from the often close connection between NF activities and pubs! Indeed, a pint of good ale in a friendly 'local' is a part of our British way of life, and has been for centuries. So any threat to our British pint threatens not just confirmed ale-topers like the author but a basic part of our national heritage.

And today the British pint is threatened. A hundred years ago, 16,000 independent brewers across the country provided every town and many villages – even large numbers of individual pubs – with their own distinctive and full-flavoured local brew. By the mid-1970's, only 87 brewers survived. Today seven of them sell 89% of Britain's beer. Six of these – the so-called 'Big Six' own 37,000 of Britain's 66,000 pubs, and use this ownership to compel them to sell their beer. The seventh giant brewery, the Irish firm Guinness (who own most of Harp lager as well), own no pubs in return for having their stout sold in everyone else's premises.

PLUTOCRATIC CARTELS

The 'Big Six' are typically plutocratic cartels. Allied Breweries not only brew Ansell's, Ind Coope and Tetley's beers (among others) and Skol lager, they make Teacher's whisky, Babycham and Britvic fruit juice, as well as owning Harvey's wine and sherry importers and three cider firms. Bass Charrington's include Mitchell and Butler's, Stone's, Carling lager and Canada Dry. Courage include John Smith's beer, Arthur Cooper Wine Merchants, sundry hotels and numerous overseas interests, as well as third shares in Taunton cider and Harp lager. They are themselves a mere appendage of the colossal Imperial Tobacco Group, which as well as virtually monopolising Britain's cigarette and tobacco trade makes Golden Wonder crisps and HP Sauce. Scottish and Newcastle, brewers of Tartan, MacEwan's and Younger's beers, own 49% of Del Monte Kitchens and sundry Scottish whisky and tourism interests. Watney, Mann and Truman brew Websters, Tamplins and Norwich beers amongst many others, and also make Coca-Cola and C. & C. Lemonade. After narrowly avoiding the clutches of one Zionist plutocrat, Charles Clore, Watney's was gobbled up in 1972 by another, Maxwell Joseph. They are now part of his monolithic Grand Metropolitan empire, which extends from hotels to computer services, from Berni and Schooner Inns to Express and Marshall's Dairies, from Gilbey Vintners to Devon eggs. Whitbreads include Flower's, Fremlin's, Wethered's and Tresher's Off-licences. They are closely linked by substantial mutual shareholdings to Trafalgar Properties, owners of the Daily Express and the Daily Star.

CHEMICALS

The 'Big Six' have systematically used their near-monopoly of Britain's beer brewing and sale outlets to replace the strong, traditional British bitter, 'real ale' brewed in the cask and alive in the glass, with watered down, gassy keg fizz, made by industrial chemists in oil-refinery-like 'megakeggeries' like Courage's in Reading and Bass Charrington's in Runcorn. Traditional hops and barley are replaced by 'hop extract', potatoes, starch, onions, rice grits and pasta as ingredients. Dubious chemical 'preservatives', 'flavourings', and 'colourants' are added, including formaldehyde (normally used for pickling corpses!) and in one case chemicals causing a ferocious hangover, thus persuading the victim he had tippled powerful ale instead of weak fizz-water!

Since weak beer is cheaper to make, incurs less Excise Duty, and can be sold for just as much as strong ale, with consequent greater profit, the 'Big Six' prefer it. The average strength of British bitter today is half what it was in 1900. Watney's, Allied Breweries and Whitbread have brewed 'beer' so weak it would have been legal during U.S. Prohibition days! Here, truly, are the "very fat men who water the workers' beer"!

SOCIAL LIFE

All opposition is ruthlessly gobbled up and shut down. Between 1960 and 1972, the 'Big Six' carried out 101 mergers and closed down 105 breweries.

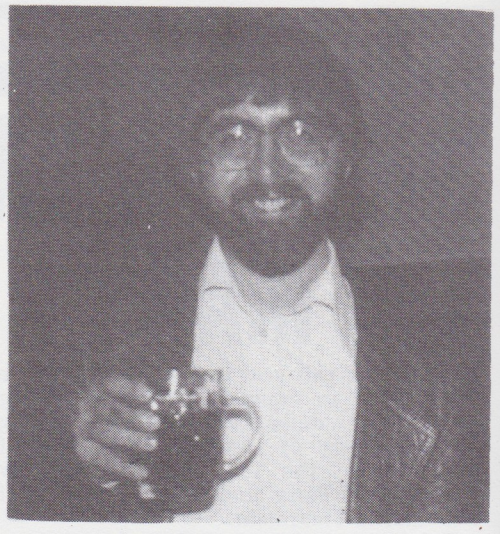
Nor are the surviving real ale breweries safe: for example Whitbreads own 26% of Boddington's, 27% of Brakspear's, 31% of Ruddle's and 39% of Morland's – they need only 51% to take over and close down these breweries. As they have closed down many a village pub, destroying a centuries-old social life and driving ever more rural Britons into the racially unhealthy 'Coca-Cola culture' of our larger towns.

The monopoly of the beer market held by the 'Big Six', and the gross overcharging of consumers for an inferior product to which it has given rise, has twice been damningly condemned by Government 'watchdogs': in 1969 by the Monopolies Commission and in 1977 by the Price Commission. Yet both times a Labour Government, supposedly anti-Capitalist, did nothing. Even less will the Tories and the SDP, in the pockets of the big brewers. Nor indeed can they do anything effective within the confines of the present System.

FEWER HANDS

For that Capitalist system, with its 'shareholders' who own firms whose wealth they play no part in creating, in which they do not work and for which they do not care, save as 'profit centres', and its Stock Exchange, is the root cause of the trouble.

The imposition of the public by monopolistic force of an inferior product which



"THE AUTHOR BOOZING"

– as the widespread support for the Campaign for Real Ale shows – they do not want in the interest of profit may not be the vision of 'free enterprise' presented by such defenders of the present System of industrial ownership as Margaret Thatcher and John Tyndall. Nor is the brewing of 90% of Britain's beer by seven Capitalist cartels instead of 100% of it by one State cartel quite the "opposite of Communism" they might like to claim. But such a rise of the plutocrats, such a monopolistic concentration of more and more economic power in fewer and fewer hands, is not an 'aberration' but the inevitable consequence of the present Capitalist System, in brewing as in many other industries.

MONEY POWER

Enterprises can be bought and sold like tins of beans on the floor of the Stock Exchange, and the likes of Maxwell Joseph can use the 'limited liability' shareholding laws to wield Money Power far beyond the wealth any productive contribution they could make could create. So long as this system continues, mergers and takeovers will build giant companies like the 'Big Six' breweries, and they'll be able to buy up and shut down their smaller rivals, however thriving. And as long as Britain's industries are owned by shareholding speculators out for a fast profit, be they City slickers or investment funds, then they will be run in the interest of profit and not the British people.

FAMILY BREWERIES

The answer, in brewing as in the rest of British industry, is to break up the Capitalist combines, abolish shareholding parasites, and decree that no one may own, or share in the ownership of, any concern in which he does not work. The result would be to replace the megakeggeries of the 'Big Six' and the foul fluids they churn out with a profusion of small worker-co-operative and family breweries, too small to impose by monopoly power inferior products and compelled by competition and public demand to brew decent beer at a fair price. Thus would the Money Power of Messrs. Joseph, Clore and their ilk be destroyed, and thus would the British pint be saved.

'Nationalist Unity': Where do we stand?

In the interest of free debate, we publish below a criticism of Nick Griffin's article "All Good Nationalists?" (N.T. No. 8) received from Mr. Peter Williams, a member of the N.F. Directorate.

I believe that it is our urgent duty to strive for the unification of all genuine parties within the movement. However, N.G. claims that between ourselves and other nationalist parties there is a basic difference in ideology.

The ideology we are discussing is Nationalism. The creed that is an expression of loyalty to the nation. It is our duty to serve the needs of the nation first and foremost and this alone is the raison d'etre of the N.F.

What then are these "roots of our ideology" that are said to divide us? I take issue with the statement that "Nationalism does not begin and end with opposition to immigration". Some of us were marching for Nationalism when there were no Blacks in Britain. We believed then, as now, that our folk should have an interest in, and benefit from the wealth of this nation, commensurate with their efforts towards its production. However to state that all individuals "must own and control their own houses, factories and farms" is divisive nonsense, clearly implying something for nothing, at another's expense. Possessions have to be won by work, and rights achieved by service. They are not to be bestowed upon every lounge-lizard who happens to be around at the time. This is an appeal to the iconoclasm of the lumpen proletariat.

CIVIL WAR

The Party cannot survive on the support of football fans alone, we require the support of the best of all our people, irrespective of class. If we are to awaken the indoctrinated masses we must first convince the elite that we have the right to lead. We shall not do this by accusations of reactionaryism against nationalists of a different hue to ourselves. This indefensible civil war between nationalists can only give comfort to the enemy.

One united Front is preferable to a multitude of disunited fragments, each noisily proclaiming its pointless independence. I am not suggesting that the N.F. sacrifice either persons or principles, but that we approach interested parties and offer an amnesty to all honourable former members. If this is not acceptable then it is very sad, we shall just have to soldier in our own faction. If we fail, we have nothing to lose, except Face, but – "England Expects"!

EDITOR'S REPLY:

Mr. Williams has put his finger on the most important distinction between the position of genuine Nationalists and reactionary phonies: "Our folk should have an interest in, and benefit from the wealth of this nation, commensurate with their efforts towards its production." N.T. has never deflected from this principle. In a major article on the Welfare State, for example, we concluded "in the Racial Nationalist state there will be a duty to work, but it will carry with it the right to a decent standard of living for all".

We agree that idle "lounge-lizards" who do not contribute to the nation's wealth should not be allowed to benefit from it. The crucial question, however, is who are the real "lounge-lizards" in Britain today?

Mr. Williams objects to our ideal that all individual Britons should own their own houses, factories and farms. He states that this implies something for nothing and is "divisive". But what on earth is "divisive" about the suggestion that workers by hand or brain have a right to the products of their own sweat?

ABSURDITY

In truth it is the present system which is divisive. A mere one hundreth of the population own over 80% of the shares in British companies. This "entitles" them, without a stroke of productive work, to rake off the profits made by the toil of millions of Britons.

This theft is dignified by the term Capitalism and is "justified" by the vague and misty idea that economic growth is the result, not of hard work, but of money "making" more money. The patriotic early British socialist Bob Blatchford pointed out the absurdity of this idea:

"Suppose I have £1,000. I put it in a bank and draw 3%, £30 a year, interest for it. At the end of twenty years I shall have drawn out £600, and yet there will still be £1,000 to my credit. How does my money breed money? How can the banker afford to pay me more than I put in the bank? ... Money does NOT breed money. Interest has to be worked for. Who earns it?

"Suppose a rich Jew has lent a million to the Government at 3%. He draws every year £30,000 in interest. Who pays it? It is raised by taxation. Who pays the taxes? They are all paid either by the workers or by those who get their money from the workers. And the Jew gets his money FOR EVER. That is to say, that after he has drawn back all his million in interest the Government goes on paying him, out of your earnings my hard-headed friend, £30,000 a year as long as anyone is left to claim it... And the worst of it is that the money the Jew lent was not earned by him, but by the ancestors of the very people who are now paying his descendants for the loan of it."

This is as true of the position of big gentile shareholders in industry as it is of Jewish banks and government debts.

PARASITES

The N.F. must indeed ensure that idle "lounge-lizards" do not benefit from the work of honest Britons. But the place to look for these parasites is not on the shop-floor or in the poverty of the dole queues. Look instead at the absentee landlords whose ancestors stole the land from the free peasantry during the Enclosures and Highland Clearances. Or look at the financial tapeworms of the City of London.

Unity – while others squabble, NF marches on ...

As Peter Williams so rightly states, Nationalists believe that "possessions have to be won by work". So how can any true Nationalist disagree with our vision of individual Britons owning their own houses, factories and farms – whose wealth they themselves created.

It is difficult to see how this can be seen as an "appeal to the iconoclasm of the lumpen proletariat". N.T. believes that the attractiveness of this call for social and economic justice is exactly what is needed to win over the best and most idealistic sections of all classes of our divided society.

STAKE IN SOCIETY

The better off members of our nation must realise that the "proletariat" cannot be expected to be patriotic when they own nothing of lasting value and have no real stake in our society. The truly divisive attitude in British Nationalism is that held by the likes of Tyndall and the C.M. Tories. They are happy to see working class 'skins' fighting the Blacks and Reds, but plan to reward them by crushing their unions, restricting their freedom and birthrates and selling off their council houses to grasping private landlords with the right of immediate eviction. It's just as Kipling said in his poem about the way "respectable" society treats Tommy Atkins:

"For it's Tommy this, an' Tommy that,
an' 'Chuck him out, the brute!'
But it's 'Saviour of 'is country' when the guns begin to shoot."

There can be no unity between the radical National Front and such mean-minded reactionary snobs. Many of the rank and file members of former splits are now rejoining the Party. We will happily take back others who dropped out or were genuinely misled. But we will not let back the ring-leaders who split the N.F. in the first place. Let's forget about their bankrupt squabblings. The National Front has more important things to do.

ZIONIST ANTI-SEMITISM

MARTIN YOUNG, who produced an excellent and accurate television series for the BBC entitled "Hanging Fire" on the subject of the Zionist occupation of the West Bank, has been bitterly attacked in a letter to The Listener written by the Information Attache at the Israeli Embassy in London. He has accused Mr. Young of telling a "damnable lie" because, he says, Mr. Young "insinuated" that only "oriental" Jews (those from Arab or other Islamic countries; the term "oriental" as used by the Zionists is a derogatory one) are sent to development towns in the Zionist State.

The Polish-born Information Attache, Mr. Jacob Rosen, also abused Mr. Young for having said that the development towns are in "dangerous" areas, and he wrote that his family had been sent to a development town.

In January 1973, an Israeli writer, A. Hoder, described in Israca how "oriental" Jews are shunted off to distant development towns such as Dimona, Hatzor or Keryath Schmono, where the infant mortality is thirty-one per cent above the national average, and in Beisan, another of these towns which is almost solely inhabited by Arab Jews, the infant mortality is over seventy per cent, more than double that of Herzlia which is inhabited almost exclusively by European Jews receiving the best of facilities and medical care, unlike the Arab Jews.

Mr. Rosen wrote that he and his parents spent eleven months in a transit camp among Jews of all nationalities and, he declared. "No one was favoured; no one was discriminated against."

LIAR

Now, however, a series of articles on the transit camps and their aftermath, based on a study of "oriental" Jews by an Israeli sociologist, has appeared in the Hebrew newspaper, Yediot Aharonot, and this proves Mr. Rosen to be a liar.

It states that, although both "oriental" and European Jews were sent to transit camps, the Ashkenazim (European Jews) stayed in them for only a short time while the Arab Jews remained in these places much longer, often for many years.

The report goes on to describe how the Arab Jews were settled in development towns or in deserted Arab houses in deserted Arab towns, and most of the development towns, situated in isolated parts of the country, grants went to the older towns.

The populations of the transit camps were used as cheap labour and they were employed in factories owned by Ashkenazi Jews or as agricultural workers in kibbutzim run by European Jews while their women worked as domestic servants for the European Jews.

The study has also described various ways in which the Jews from Arab countries suffer from every form of deprivation and discrimination because they are the underprivileged workers while the Ashkenazim are the rulers and managers of the economy.

An article in Maariv, another Hebrew newspaper, wrote of Iraqi Jews who had left the Zionist State because the struggle to erase what the Zionists described as their "negative" past became too difficult. A member of a respected Iraqi family said they were expected to become "new" people but, in the end, they were neither one thing nor the other, and so they had left the country "in despair".

Another article in the Jewish Chronicle said that an Iraqi Jew who lives in Katamon in Jerusalem, spoke with great bitterness. It is interesting to recall that Katamon was at one time a Palestinian village and it is now a slum for Arab Jews who live in bleak, crumbling houses with a poor bus service, a few dilapidated shops and no amenities of any kind.

Ya'akov Dachlika said: "When an Ashkenazi comes here, he gets tax relief, help in buying a flat, help in finding a job, help in every way. When we came here, we were left to moulder for thirty years, like all Sephardim (a term which originally meant Spanish Jews, many of whom settled in the Middle East after the Inquisition, but is now used to refer to all non-European Jews).

BACKWARD

"Eight kids in two rooms, with only mattresses on the floor to sleep on; no room to eat round a table; no room to do homework; father out of work ... nobody ever helped us to acclimatise and now it's too late. The Ashkenazim told us that our parents' way of life in Kurdistan was primitive, and that the traditions we loved were just worthless nostalgia. We were called backward and delinquent because we got involved in petty crime since we have nowhere to go except the streets. Then they said our families were to blame."

The writer of the article commented: "He feels that the Ashkenazim excluded him and his type from the Zionist dream. He sees successful Ashkenazim all around him, and neighbourhood after neighbourhood of poor ill educated, bitter Sephardim."

This article also states that European Jews hold all the important posts in business, the law, education, the army, medicine and, giving the lie once more to what the Zionist press attache wrote, the article added that "before 1967, Jerusalem was encircled by poor neighbourhoods that acted as border buffers – Musrara, Baka, Katamon, Yemin Moshe and Shmuel Hanavi. Who did the authorities house there in cramped flats, constantly under Jordanian sniper fire? The Iraqis, the North Africans and the Kurds. And who were housed elsewhere, out of danger, with gardens and flats of two rooms for two children – not eight children? The Ashkenazis."

Arab Jew settlers, used as cannon fodder by Ashkenazis.

A LOOK AT THE LATEST READING

'HOLOCAUST' NEWS – The Centre For Historical Review.

THE truth of the "6 million gassed Jews" legend has been queried by a wide-range of reputable academics, civil-rights campaigners, prominent lawyers and even former concentration camp internees. The majority of such "Revisionist History" works have, however, been too detailed and expensive to appeal to the man in the street.

The Zionists have exerted massive pressure to stop the truth about the Hoax of the 20th Century reaching the public. Jewish writer Josef Ginsburg was savagely beaten up by Zionist thugs after he denied that the 'Holocaust' happened. Historical documents expert Dr. Robert Faurisson of the University of Lyons, France, was heavily fined and threatened with imprisonment when his research showed that the Diary of Anne Frank was a fake.

Clearly the Zionists are terrified that widespread questioning of the 'Holocaust' myth would destroy support for their brutal and illegal occupation of Palestine, as well as undermining their attacks on the legitimate nationalism and racialism of other peoples.

With the appearance of this new paper, however, the Zionist campaign to falsify history has taken one of its hardest knocks yet! At last there is a cheap and easy-to-read publication which will expose the 'Holocaust' Hoax to thousands upon thousands of people.

'Holocaust' News does NOT deny that thousands of innocent camp inmates died through disease and malnutrition when German supply lines broke down towards the end of the war.

But it shows convincingly that the accounts of "mass gassings" are scientifically impossible. It reveals that once infamous "death camps" such as Dachau have now been downgraded to mere "labour camps". All the alleged gas-chambers are now conveniently in Communist-occupied Poland. It points out that the "evidence" at the Nuremberg Trials, relying on torture or mere hearsay, would not even be admissible in any British court.

Finally 'Holocaust' News takes a look at the real holocaust – the massacre of Palestinian villagers and the theft of their land.

NON-NUCLEAR ENERGY OPTIONS

BRITAIN, in common with all other industrial nations, faces an energy crisis. If we continue at our present rates of energy consumption then Britain's reserves of oil and natural gas could run out at the turn of the century. It is estimated that our coal stocks will last us another 300 years.

The race is on to find alternative methods of energy production. Methods of production that will produce electricity thus enabling us to use our oil reserves for producing petrol, lubricants and plastics. It is also important that we preserve our coal stocks for the future. It is technically possible to extract oil from coal – but at the moment this is a difficult and expensive process. However in time, with new technology, this may become a viable operation.

At one time it looked as though nuclear power might be the solution to our energy needs. But as I argued in my article Oppose Nuclear Power (N.T. No. 8), nuclear power is inefficient, expensive and extremely dangerous and is not worth the risks that it carries.

Instead more and more people are looking to renewable forms of energy from the wind, the waves and the sun which do not harm the environment.

Here is a run-down of the non-nuclear energy options for the UK:

■ ENERGY CONSERVATION

Conservation must be the cornerstone of any energy policy. At present most of the energy we produce in Britain is used for heating buildings and water. By doing this more efficiently we can immediately reduce the demand for fossil fuels so that they will last longer.

On average 65% of the energy we use in our homes is for space (room) heating. The heat escapes from a typical, uninsulated, semi-detached house through the walls (35%), roof (25%), floor (15%), draughts (15%) and windows (10%).

If we were to properly insulate all existing housing stock in Britain with loft insulation, cavity walls and double glazing, we would save £750 million a year in heating bills. This saving in heating would pay back the costs in providing such insulation within 4 years.

Energy conservation is a more sensible, cheaper and safer energy option than nuclear power. Sir Martin Ryle, of Cambridge University, has calculated that the capital cost of a nuclear power station, if spent instead on energy conservation, would save three times more energy than the station would produce in its lifetime. If the nuclear power programme were scrapped and the money allocated to home insulation, £750-1000, could be spent in each home.

Combined heat and power (CHP) schemes would also play an important part in any programme of energy conservation. The laws of thermo-dynamics govern the conversion of energy from one form to another. Electricity production in the UK used the equivalent of 114 million tons of coal in 1977 as a primary power station fuel. The overall conversion efficiency of this process was 30.8%. This means that the equivalent of 79 million tons of coal was discharged as waste heat into the atmosphere or into rivers and seas.

CHP is the name given to the way in which this waste heat is harnessed and used to heat local factories and houses. In Germany this process is used to heat and provide hot water to local housing around power stations. An example of its industrial application is in Hereford. There the Midlands Electricity Board uses waste heat from the local power station to heat steam and water for local cider and chicken processing factories.

■ WIND POWER

The use of wind power goes back to the time of the Industrial Revolution. Windmills have been used for centuries to provide mechanical energy for grinding corn and pumping energy.

The world's biggest horizontal axis aerogenerator is currently being built on the Orkneys. It stands 145 feet high and has blades 195 feet across, and will produce three megawatts of electricity. Already a similar aerogenerator at Aldborough, Yorkshire, supplies some electricity to the national grid.

The UK energy establishment now sees windpower as the most likely contender in the renewable energy field, partly because of the success of the US windpower programme. Boosted by the thought that the times when wind blows hardest are also the times when demand for electricity is the greatest, the Department of Energy has spent £4 million so far on nine projects. It is planned to situate clusters of aerogenerators in shallow waters offshore where wind speeds are higher than on land.

Professor Musgrove of Reading University suggests that we could obtain 25% of our electricity from mainly offshore plants arranged in 400 unit clusters. He estimates that each cluster could provide 1000 megawatts of electricity.

■ WAVE POWER

The use of wave power is an obvious possibility in Britain, an island surrounded by sometimes very turbulent seas.

Already several different prototype wave power machines are in operation around Britain's coastline, including one designed by Sir Christopher Cockerill, the hover-craft inventor.

Scientists predict that given reasonable progress, wave power is likely to be commercial in as little as 5 years. And the former chairman of the Central Electricity Generating Board has said that "it could supply the whole of Britain with electricity at the present rate of consumption".

■ TIDAL POWER

The other major power source derived from the sea is tidal power. The Severn Estuary forms the best site for tidal power in Europe and one of the best in the world – with a tidal rise of 8.8 metres. Morecambe Bay is another site with potential.

Power could be extracted from these using turbines, driven by the passage of tides through a constructed dam or barrage. It has been predicted that the Severn Estuary could provide 10% of our energy requirements.

■ SOLAR ENERGY

21% of the energy consumed in our homes is for water heating. It is easy to convert solar energy into heat and this could provide a very significant proportion of our domestic hot water and space heating demands.

Heat storage has always been one of the main problems in countries such as Britain because of the long periods of cloudy weather. But these problems are now being overcome with the use of rocks and soil as storage materials.

Some recent experiments in South London have proved that substantial savings in heating costs (60%) can be made by incorporating solar panels in both old and new properties.

■ GEOTHERMAL ENERGY

In the UK fantastic reserves of heat are contained in the upper 10 kilometres of the earth's crust. This heat store is staggering – equivalent to the energy contained in 50,000 million million tons of coal. If we could tap only a millionth part of it we would have the same amount of energy contained in our estimated reserves of coal.

The Romans tapped it long ago in places such as Bath. And the Hungarians have been using their underground heating since the beginning of the century. France, Iceland, Italy, New Zealand and Japan have been using hot water and steam to generate electricity.

Now test drilling, to a depth of two miles, is going ahead in Hampshire and Cornwall and the results are encouraging.

EVERLASTING

These, then, are some of the forms of alternative energy that are being developed in this country. Although the government has spent several millions in funding these projects, this is only a drop in the ocean compared with the colossal amount of money wasted on the inefficient and dangerous nuclear power programme. More funding is needed if Britain is not to fall behind in the alternative energy race.

Britain desperately needs alternative energy – energy that will bring cheap, non-polluting, safe and everlasting power to the people.

DAVID GREASON

THE INVASION OF AUSTRALIA

THE AUTHOR, David Greason is 22. Born in the North West of England, his family emigrated to Australia some years ago. Dave has been sympathetic to the National Front since it gained nationwide publicity after the Lewisham riot in 1977.

He is one of the leading figures in National Action, the patriotic Australian group whose radical social and economic views are proving increasingly popular "Down Under". Dave edits their excellent newspaper, Audacity. Recently he organised an active "Free Joe Pearce" campaign in Australia.

Dave Greason is hoping to visit Britain at the end of the year and may have time to attend several NF Branch meetings. Organisers who are interested in the possibility of this articulate young man speaking at a Branch meeting should get in touch with him now, through a letter to N.T.

Thousands of Aussies died to keep out Jap hordes. Now politicians welcome them.

THE WHITE AUSTRALIA POLICY, formulated in the 1890's, dictated Australian immigration trends until 1967 when the then Liberal Prime Minister, Harold Holt (later to be eaten by a shark) quietly disposed of it. As a policy, it was a decisive factor in Australian history. It was a force for the federation of the states; it was also a major consolidating factor in the trade union movement, leading to the formation of the Australian Labor Party (A.L.P.). It played a role in the defeat of the two conscription referenda in 1917, and helped to keep Australia free from the inter-racial strife that plagues Britain, Europe and the United States.

The trade union movement was primarily responsible for the development of the White Australia Policy, and for this alone, Australian unionists earned the hatred of continental Marxists who attacked Australian "racism". The fear of the "Yellow Peril", i.e. a full scale Asian invasion, was just as real to the Australian worker as was his fear that small scale non-white immigration would lower his standard of living – as in fact it did. Sugar plantation owners in Northern Queensland imported several thousand Melanesians for cheap labour, whilst pastoral companies employed Chinese as scabs during the 1891 Shearers strike in Queensland.

RACIAL NATIONALIST UNIONS

The racial nationalist policies of the union movement, immortalised in the writings of the Australian Workers Union leader, William Lane, whose works, "The Workingman's Paradise", and "The Coming Race War" were basic texts of Australian socialism.

Similarly, unionists stood for high tariffs to protect Australian industries from cheap imports. Even today the Clothing Trades Union and the Boot Trades Employees Federation lead campaigns against shoddy Asian imports flooding the home market.

This leads to the paradox in Australian Nationalist politics today.

For years, the Australian "right-wing" has been anti-Union for a number of reasons: Many "anti-communist" formations are close to the ruling Liberal Party (which despite its name is Tory). These groups, encouraged by the anti-union exhortations of Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser, look upon unions as being "unpatriotic".

Another factor is the failure to differentiate between unions and marxist union officials. This leads to the absurd belief that all unions are "communist" and therefore a danger to the nation.

RUNNING BATTLES

In reality, the trade union movement has been one of the most nationalist sectors of the Australian community, fighting for immigration restriction, tariff barriers and more recently, the expulsion of multinational corporations. Unfortunately, owing to infiltration by bourgeois elements and a general liberal ethos in the community, the unions have, over the past 15 years, tended to neglect their traditional support for White Australia, although the following points should be noted:

1) When Vietnamese refugees first began to enter Australia by boat in late 1977, Darwin wharfies walked off the job refusing to man the docks. They repeated this in 1979.

2) A couple of years ago, Vietnamese refugees and waterside workers fought running battles in the streets of Brisbane.

3) John Halfpenny, a union leader and ex-leading industrial cadre of the Communist Party of Australia, is believed to have sent a message of solidarity to Bruce Ruxton, Victorian President of the Returned Services League for his call for a return to the White Australia Policy.

Although we as nationalists like to poke fun at and criticise leftist ideology, we can learn from it. One leftist dictum which should be studied is the theory that the political consciousness of the vast majority of workers is limited to a trade union consciousness, i.e. the highest level of political development for the majority of workers is limited to trade union struggles around issues such as pay, hours and working conditions.

This trade union consciousness can be broadened, however, if the workers are shown that the work they are performing is not just a means to the end of earning a pay packet at the end of the week, but is a factor in society's well being, or, as the case may be, ill health. For example – if workers in a food processing plant are producing goods which they know are not nutritious, then they have a resonsibility to halt the production, as they are not only producers but consumers as well. If we refused to create shoddy goods and unhealthy food products then the combines would have to improve them. Remember, we've got to eat the rubbish!

Similarly, if no M.P. is willing to oppose immigration, then it's up to us, as workers and citizens to do so, as the Darwin wharfies did in 1977 and '79 by walking off the job, and as porters and taxi drivers at Heathrow and Gatwick did in September 1972 when they refused to move luggage for or transport Ugandan Asians.

DE-INDUSTRIALISATION

What is also of note in Australia is the attitude of certain leftist groups in regards to nationalist principles, particularly the fight against multinationals and the abolition of tariff barriers. A debate is now raging in the leftist press as to whether protectionism should be supported or not. On the protectionist side is the Communist Party of Australia, whilst opposing protection are the Trotskyites.

The political economists at Sydney University led by Professor Ted Wheelwright are protesting at the deindustrialisation of Australia in an antipodean Morgenthau Plan which will make Australia the quarry for an industrialised Asia. And with leftists in the unions running protectionist campaigns, the possibility of "left" nationalist elements joining with "right" nationalist elements is on the cards.

The Australian nationalist paper Audacity has mooted this possibility in an article entitled "A National-Left?". Obviously, many leftists, particularly the rootless cosmopolitans who are to be found in the Trotskyite sects, are politically beyond the pale. But reduced to individuals – if they support industrial protection, if they oppose multinationals, and if they oppose Asian immigration – which some Australian "leftists" do – then how far away from us are they? Is our basic difference that we each believe in the myth of "left" and "right" in the first place?

IMMORTAL

Jack Lang was probably the greatest Australian Nationalist politician ever. He staunchly supported the White Australia Policy until his death in 1975, coining the immortal phrase, "Anyone who is against the White Australia Policy is against the Australian Nation". When he was first elected as Premier of New South Wales in 1925, his government introduced widows' pensions, child benefit and workers' compensation, and brought in legislation protecting families living in rented accomodation.

His Government fell two years later but was overwhelmingly re-elected in 1930. When the depression began to weigh heaviest on Australia in 1931 Lang put the people of New South Wales before the bankers, by refusing to make any more usurious loan repayments to the international financiers.

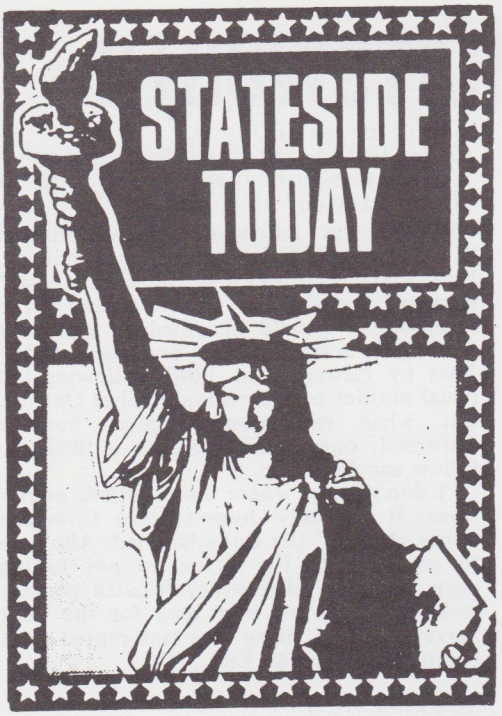
However, when Lang announced that the foreign debts were to be repudiated, "patriotic" elements in New South Wales who put the interests of "British" bankers before those of Australian families, began to agitate for Lang's removal. The New Guard, a conservative para-military organisation, was established to oppose Lang's "bolshevism". Thanks to their activities and the machinations of the international bankers, Lang was dismissed from office in 1932.

STUPIDITY

Here we have an excellent example of the stupidity of reactionary "patriots" who are too blind to see that the "radicals" who they oppose have their nation's best interests at heart. By this, I am not saying that the average leftist is really a patriot – most of them are shabby little hacks whose personal character defects lead them to organisations where everything noble is derided; everything noteworthy is undermined. But men like Jack Lang are faced with sadly deluded opposition from people who think that all forms of socialism come from Satan! One hopes that "patriotic anti-communists" will not try the same stunt again – for in the fight that our countries face in the years to come, it will not matter whether one sees oneself as being "left" or "right" – all that counts is the nation.

Let Prof. Wheelwright of Sydney University have the last words:

"Make no mistake, if we, the workers, do not take control of the big corporations at least by the end of this century, we shall be the biggest export platform in the world, run by Lee Kwan Fraser, with all the easy access minerals ripped out of the ground, with us left with little natural resources, little new plant and equipment, and no new technology to compete with the masses of Asia. We shall be the poor white trash of South East Asia, with our massage parlours open twenty-four hours a day!"



ATLANTA KILLER WAS A BLACK

BETWEEN July 1979 and May 1981, in the city of Atlanta, 23 Black children were murdered.

Reactions to the murders were predictable. Blacks, who comprise 2/3 of the population, complained of their corrupt and inefficient Mayor and Police Chief (both black). Politicians howled about 'White racists'. Reagan gave millions of dollars to help to find the killers, Frank Sinatra and other 'musical' geriatrics came to town and offered their free services.

The press and TV pulled out all the stops. Smear programmes, which would put even our own World In Action in the shade, alleging terrorism by White nationalist groups, were shown on TV screens. Further smear stories were splashed in the newspapers. Racial tensions were so high that when a school boiler accidentally blew up, killing five Black children, Atlanta went to the brink of race-war.

However, on the 27th March 1982, Wayne Williams, a Black man, was convicted of two of the murders. All of the smears on the Whites were dropped and forgotten.

But the real horror of Atlanta, was that while the justified commotion was raised over the deaths of the Blacks, absolutely nothing was said or done about the spate of murders of Whites which took place at the same time. But that's another story.

"Nobody is more a part of the American Establishment than American Jews. Someone once told me that on the Jewish holy days the capital in Washington is half empty and that New York is three-quarters empty. Why? Because so many of the doers and managers who keep Washington running are Jews."

– Arthur Hertzberg, Vice President of the Jewish World Congress, interviewed in Der Spiegel, 5th October, 1981.

Whoops Apocalypse

WIDESPREAD drug abuse, insanity and criminality among America's largely Black armed forces could spark off a nuclear war. This was the conclusion of Dr. James E. Muller of Harvard Medical School, announced at the beginning of April.

Dr. Muller revealed that of 100,000 U.S. servicemen with access to atomic weapons, 5,000 have to have their finger removed from the nuclear bomb button due to drug abuse, court martial, criminal convictions or mental instability every year. American troops controlling atomic missiles have been found under the influence of LSD, heroin and marijuana. Many belong to racial minorities and are hostile to the American state, with a "contemptuous attitude" to the law.

The prospect of some disgruntled or drug-crazed Negro triggering off World War Three is alarming enough. But the Thatcher government's total slavish obedience to Washington on top of our position as part of the American NATO war machine, means that we would be dragged in as well – "SO LONG SUCKERS":

NAUGHTY...

BY the year 2,000 – only 18 years away – the majority of the population of the USA will be non-White, mainly Hispanic and Negroid. Last year, of all US youths up to the age of 18, less than one third were White. The largest racial group are the Hispanics – mainly Mexicans and Puerto Ricans; but the Negroes are also breeding at a much faster rate than the dwindling White population.

This is causing growing alarm in the European countries which rely on American troops for their "defence".

It's not exactly pleasing a lot of White Americans either. Working folk object to paying ever increasing tax bills to provide Welfare payments for illegal Mexican immigrants and tens of thousands of illegitimate Black babies.

Many White Americans are also beginning to object to the role of the Zionist masters of the US media in furthering multi-racialism.

So nasty hatefilled stickers such as the one below are appearing more and more in the Land of the Free. We think they're just SHOCKING!

KEN GUICHARD

SENILITY AT CHATSWORTH

THE AGEING DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE whose unearned fortune makes him one of the richest men in England, was for many years President of Conservative Friends of Israel. He recently abandoned his position at the head of Parliament's largest and best organised pressure group in order to join the SDP.

The SDP, like the Labour Party, also has a powerful 'Friends of Israel' group, so the Duke should feel at home.

He should certainly be able to afford the claret. The labour of his many tenant farmers provides him with an enormous income from thousands of acres of land which have been in the family since a distant ancestor happened to be on the winning side at the Battle of Hastings.

WE HEAR that the Duke of Devonshire, following an interview given in his little Mayfair pad, is very cross with the Jewish Chronicle (the organ of rampaging Zionism) for poking fun at him. What particularly annoyed the Duke was that two of his printed statements indicated the onset of senility. He is sixty-two. One of the statements concerning Israel was immediately followed by another flatly contradicting it.

We sympathize, we really do. It must be dreadful to be exposed as an idiot to some half-million of the Chosen, not to mention those 150 MP's who belong to Conservative Friends of Israel. However, fortunately for the Duke, the SDP don't worry much about this senility angle. In a democracy a heavily titled patron is always a godsend.

The Duke whose papa was a very strong Zionist remembers when Chaim Weizman came to lunch at Eaton Place. The Jew made a great impression, possibly in the smoked salmon, although the Duke couldn't remember any details.

Later in life His Grace became President of the Conservative Friends of Israel – "I was immensely flattered".

CONTRADICTION

Modesty in high places is fascinating, but we are after the meat. His Grace was reported to have said, "I have tried to do my best for the organisation (Conservative Friends of Israel) though I am not all that keen on mixing up Jewish or Israeli connections with political parties in this country. No, I am not very happy about it."

We gather the Duke appeared uneasy and 'thought deeply'. Then flatly contradicting himself he suddenly popped off with, "It is very very important that the Conservative Party should be really associated and, if need be, put the chips down for the justice of the Israeli cause. No argument! We have got to do that! That's vital!"

But silliness did not end there. Soon a ducal doubt was expressed. Israel was such a fine democracy, but was Begin right in his West Bank policy? The Duke didn't know. It wasn't his concern. We took that to mean that Arab land was pinchable. Chatsworth would always stand.

Then came a ducal certainty. It would be very very wrong of the British Government to recognise the PLO.

After that, a spot of passion bubbled up, "I care passionately about the State of Israel. I really do."

Passion was followed by bewilderment, "I simply cannot understand antisemitism. You know I think it is relatively new." How sad that a lack of understanding of the facts of life should be allied to ignorance of English history – the expulsion of the Jews by Edward I in 1290, following the ritual murder of a christian child at Oxford. But when self-appointed gurus become disturbed, one inane utterance is likely to follow another.

"I don't know where antisemitism comes from. It certainly doesn't come from the upper classes," the Duke babbled. Allow us to congratulate His Grace on not having been born a 19th century Russian peasant seeking a loan to buy seed for the next harvest. Or not living in a rack-rented slum tenement in the East End.

MASSACRES

We understand His Grace visited Jerusalem. While he was 'doing' the Wailing Wall and inhaling the stink of centuries of stale sweat that clings to that place, did he by any chance ask the fawning guide for a glimpse of Deir Yassin? But on second thoughts, if the Duke doesn't know where antisemitism comes from, he will certainly not have heard of Deir Yassin and the calculated massacre of the Arab inhabitants by Zionists under Begin. It was Begin who ordered the massacre of 250 men, women and children in the undefended Palestinian village. The wombs of pregnant women were cut open; little girls were raped, then killed, and toddlers were individually machine-gunned.

But the vaunted exploits of that leader of Israel are minor ones when set against massacres by Jews of Greeks in Cyrenaica in 115 AD and in Cyprus during the same period. The score ran into six figures.

Finally, to bring the origins of antisemitism in some quarters right up to date, there is the very recent case of Joe Pearce. Following a dubious charge of inciting racial hatred this lad of twenty was hounded by a Zionist-controlled establishment under the Zionist-created Race Laws and finally imprisoned after three trials. The sentence was a political decision engineered by Zionists.

We note one further statement by the Sage of Chatsworth. "If I ever do hear an antisemitic remark, I never let it pass. My bile reacts at once..."

The Duke should calm down and then take a look at the Jewish Chronicle of 29 January 1982 quoted in last issue's 'Troubleshooting' column. There he will find himself classified, not to say thrown on the dung heap. It might even make him "antisemitic".

A Golders Green orthodox Jew pointed out that, "The great Jewish philosophers such as Rabbi Judah Halevi in the "KUZARI" classified the Jewish people, not as ordinary human beings who happen to practice the Jewish religion, but as a separate species of mankind. This is consistent with the view of the Cabala..."

Board of Deputies head Greville Janner M.P. Sinister figure behind the dotty Duke.

The fanatic went on to say, quoting from Jewish lore, that mankind other than the Jews is the "evil species from the side of uncleanness". The Jew is holy and the rest unclean.

Referring to this nonsense in the next week's JC, another Jew observed tartly that it seemed that the Nazis got it right about Jews being different – the real "Master Race" in fact.

"MASTER RACE"

The same correspondent addressing the editor of JC then wrote, "what surprises and perturbs me however is that you are prepared to print what can only be regarded as racist opinions; material which, if it had been published elsewhere, you yourself would have been the first to find pernicious, and possibly contravening the law against incitement to hatred."

Quite so. We submit, however, that these ultra-racist Zionist doctrines inciting hatred of the whole world and openly expressed and championed in the Jewish Chronicle are a clear case for the Public Prosecutor. But who will dare prosecute the mouthpiece of such powerful fanatics?

We begin to suspect that many of the readers of JC have already consigned us lot to the rubbish dump – His Grace on his Zionist platform, the pro-Israel gentile MP's, English lads with short hair, the Brixton Blacks and the Asian multitudes of Brent – all are tainted. Even the big boss in the White House and the lesser one at No. 10 are candidates for the dustbin. And you can hark back to the mighty Pharaohs, to the glory that was Greece, to Baghdad of the Caliphs and to Florence of the Renaissance and the theme is always the same. All the memorable achievements of mankind were the work of the 'evil species'. Despite the great Jewish destiny known only to Jews, every human triumph sprang from the side of uncleanness.

The Jewish Chronicle puts us in our place.

But, Your Grace, we also crave an interview. Tell us how it feels to be called, even by implication, a portion of excreta.

Trouble shooting

TYNDALL'S TROUBLES

THOSE who bother to keep abreast of the antics of the splinter groups which broke away from the National Front in 1979/1980 will be aware that John Tyndall has issued an "Emergency Appeal" for £6,000 with copies of the April issue of his magazine Spearhead.

For the benefit of newcomers to the Nationalist scene, Tyndall was once the Chairman of the NF's National Directorate. He left the party in July 1980 in order to become "The Leader" of the New National Front splinter group which recently transmogrified itself into the British National Party (Mk. 5).

In his appeal for funds, Tyndall indicates that he is in danger of being made bankrupt by the leaders of the Constitutional Movement, a group which split from the NF in December 1979.

The background to this development is as follows:

During 1979, while the Con. Movement and the NNF were still factions within the National Front, the party was accomodated in part of Excalibur House, a building in East London. This building was owned by N.F. Properties Ltd. The NF possessed the majority vote in this company through shares held by three Trustees, the principal among whom was the then Deputy-Chairman of the NF, Andrew Fountaine. The Chairman of the Board of N.F. Properties Ltd was Paul Kavanagh. Fountaine and Kavanagh were the leaders of the faction which eventually became the Con. Movement. Their faction also controlled the Committee of the Excalibur Club, an alleged "social" club housed on the top floor of Excalibur House.

In short, while Tyndall dreamed his grandiose dreams of power in his 'Seacroft' redoubt in Hove a conspiratorial faction had seized actual power over the NF by taking control of the party's major financial assets.

Tyndall eventually awakened from his daydreaming and sought to reverse the situation. He believed that as he was Chairman of the NF's Directorate, and as the NF's shareholding in N.F. Properties Ltd constituted the majority equity in the company, then he was legally entitled to act as if he were the Chairman and Board of the Company, the NF Trustee shareholders and the Committee of the Excalibur Club all rolled into one! Labouring under this delusion Tyndall ejected from the building the club Steward, Jimmy Styles. The club's Committee responded by taking Tyndall to the High Court and obtained an Injunction restraining him from interfering with club members' right of access.

During Christmas 1979 Tyndall broke the Injunction by ordering that the building be closed to all visitors during the holiday period. As a result, the club Committee gleefully instituted a Contempt of Court action. Tyndall was convicted and, in addition to a fine of £250, was ordered to pay the club's legal costs. These, together with their costs in the first action, amounted to more than £6,000. It is the club's pursuit of Tyndall for these costs that has led to his recent "Emergency Appeal".

Inconvenience rather than disgrace is the lot of an individual brought to bankruptcy through the malice of a wealthy enemy able to pursue a vendetta through High Court litigation. Where such a vendetta is an attempt to incapacitate a political opponent — then all the disgrace must attach to the victimiser, not the hapless victim.

The question is: does Tyndall fall into the category of "hapless victim"?

I have already discussed how Tyndall, a strutting little man who really does believe that he is cast from the same mould as Adolf Hitler, allowed Kavanagh and his cronies to seize the party's principal organ of power. But there are other factors to consider – not least his amazing attitude while being prosecuted for Contempt of Court.

It does not take much savvy to realise that the only way one can mitigate the penalties for this offence is to attend upon the Court and show an appropriate degree of respect and contrition. But the Great Leader was above all this. He had arranged to go on a "sack Webster/abolish the Directorate/appoint me as Leader" speaking tour of NF units in the South-West of England at the time the Contempt of Court action against him was due to be heard – and a Great Leader does not alter the route of his onward march to Destiny just to mollify a nonentity High Court judge!

Tyndall's non-attendance upon the Court until the last stages of the proceedings not only had the effect of irritating the judge — it also prevented Tyndall's lawyers from negotiating a settlement of the action with the Plaintiff's lawyers outside Court, thereby saving thousands of pounds in legal costs.

IRRESPONSIBLE

By this time (early 1980) Tyndall had resigned as Chairman of the NF Directorate in protest against his Directorate colleagues' refusal to facilitate the granting to him of dictatorial powers over the party. Despite the fact that he was clearly in process of building up an anti-party faction preparatory to the formation of a splinter group, the NF Directorate paid all the costs incurred by his lawyers, and also his £250 fine. However, so far as the £6,000 costs incurred by the Plaintiffs and awarded against Tyndall were concerned, the Directorate only agreed to pay that portion not incurred as a result of his irresponsible refusal to attend upon the Court from the outset.

Had Tyndall remained loyal to and part of the NF, a substantial portion of the £6,000 would have been paid by the NF and, no doubt, the party would have assisted with any personal appeal he might need to make to enable him to meet the balance. But, as we know, he was not loyal.

He decided that the NF was so burdened by debt as a result of the Kavanagh-Fountaine conspiracy that the party was sure to crash. He did not want to be involved when that happened. He figured that his best bet would be to launch a new party, unencumbered by the NF's debts and equipped with a constitution which appointed him as The Leader. Then he would be in a position to pick up the NF's membership once the "inevitable" crash came. Thus it was that he broke away from the NF to form the New National Front.

Ever since forming the NNF Tyndall has devoted his life to trying to precipitate the crash of the NF, as all his publications bear witness, issue after issue.

CONTEMPTIBLE

In the face of such contemptible conduct it became impossible for the NF Directorate to consider paying a penny towards Tyndall's legal debts. If he is now experiencing the kind of financial crisis which he predicted (with relish) would destroy the National Front, then he only has himself to blame.

While it is true that the Excalibur Club/Con. Movement people are motivated by malice for Tyndall, one cannot say that he falls into the category of "hapless victim" who deserves the unqualified sympathy and cash backing of Nationalists. Anybody who is able to concentrate into his personality so much wilful stupidity, pompous arrogance, cynical opportunism and hard-faced treachery must surely present a challenge to Fate and Providence.

Tyndall has at least one consolation in this affair: should he be forced into bankruptcy, all his Albion Press and BNP (Mk. 5) bank accounts will be operated by his charming and talented parents-in-law, Charles and Violet Parker. The thought of this set-up will give all those who know the people concerned a warm glow of satisfaction...

Ulster Controversy

Dear Editor,

I disagree with Steve Brady's article 'Ulster Points the Way to White Victory' on a number of points:

1) Ian Paisley's 1964 march into the "Republican" area of Belfast was of course against the Catholic area – and Catholic only because the Protestant City Housing Dept. made it so. Mr Brady implies that Paisley went to prison as a result. This is untrue. Paisley served time for a non-political offence arising from a squabble in the Presbyterian General Assembly.

2) Mr Brady says that UVF man Gusty Spence got life for "executing an IRA leader". In fact his victim was an 18 year old barman, Peter Ward. Ian Paisley himself condemned the "atrocious murder", "fascists" and "the liquor traffic which constitutes the background to the murder".

3) Mr Brady ignored the deep splits in Ulster loyalism. William Craig's Ormeau Park rally, for example, was organised on a UDI ticket and threatened not only Catholics but also British soldiers. Mr Paisley's reaction? "I cannot condemn this speech strongly enough." The UDA is also pro-UDI.

John McKeague, leader of the Red Hand Commando, was recently murdered by other loyalists.

4) As Mr Brady admits, "the first 'republican' riots took place in October 1968". So why had the previous half-century seen widespread discrimination against Catholics in jobs and in council housing simply because they are Catholics. As the 1969 Cameron Commission found, local elections are rigged to deny them political power. The NF must not be associated with disgrace. Paisley is not interested in "Nation and People", but "God and Ulster".

The Civil Rights campaigners had many justifiable grievances, but Paisley whipped up attacks on them for religious reasons and slanderous accusations about them being Communists and IRA men were used to discredit the movement.

5) Worst of all is Mr Brady's equation of Ulster Catholics with Black immigrants, "substitute Blacks for Republicans". But "republicans" are not Black, but White! Not immigrants but British! The article can only be construed as a racial attack on the Celtic-Irish.

6) Mr Brady forgets that the first gunmen in the present troubles were not the IRA (Spence, 1966). The first bombing campaign was by the 'loyalist' UVF in 1969 (Sam Stevenson got 12 years for 8 alleged bombings on reservoirs and electricity stations). The first RUC man shot dead was killed by so-called loyalists in the Shankill Road, October 1969, when 69 loyalists were arrested and 1,000 rounds of ammunition were fired at British soldiers. The IRA didn't start killing British soldiers or bombing until 1971.

7) Finally, bearing in mind the anti-Catholic discrimination, how loyal can they be expected to be? How loyal would Protestants be were the position reversed?

Pat McGuire, Islington.

EDITOR'S REPLY:

Mr. McGuire is factually incorrect in a number of respects.

1) Ian Paisley also went to prison for the political offence of defying a march ban. His march in 1964 was in protest against the police refusal to take down the tricolour which was flying in Divis Street. Since this is the flag not only of their old Republican enemy, but also of a foreign country whose constitution makes a territorial claim to the whole of British Ulster, it is not surprising that it is provocative to loyalists.

Sectarian Protestantism has indeed played a part in dividing Ulster. But so has Catholic sectarianism. The British Journal of Sociology recently published a study by a Mr. Hewitt of Maryland University, USA, which showed that local councils run by Protestants house more Catholics than Catholic council house Protestants.

In Catholic-controlled Newry, for example only 22 out of 743 council houses were let to Protestants. And the number of Protestants employed by the lical council? None!

2) Gusty Spence has always denied involvement in the murder of well-known Republican Peter Ward.

3) There is division in the Ulster loyalist camp. This is mainly the result of uncertainty over how to resist the continual attempts by treasonable Westminster governments to sell out Ulster and her people.

The Marxist Republican terror gang INLA claimed responsibility for the murder of John McKeague.

4) After the first local council elections in Ulster following Partition, the three Catholic councils voted to offer their allegiance to the Irish Free State. Having shown their disloyalty right from the start, the Republican/Catholic minority were not really in a position to complain when the Loyalist majority treated them as disloyal. 60 years later, they are still electing convicted IRA murderers to Parliament.

Mr. McGuire forgets the role of Marxist Bernadette Devlin in the "Civil Rights" agitation; forgets the congratulatory telegram from the well known IRA coffin-carrier, International Marxist Tariq Ali; forgets the IRA arms fund set up by Haughey and his fellow Republicans as early as 1969. The involvement of Communists and IRA men is not a "slanderous accusation;, it is a proven FACT.

5) N.T. would certainly NOT approve of a racial attack on the Celtic-Irish. We recognise their great contribution to British life, particularly in the cultural field. We also uphold the right of all White peoples, including minorities, to self-determination and the preservation of their language, culture and traditions. We apply this to Eire; it is unfortunate that Republicans refuse to apply the same principle to more than a million Ulster Loyalists.

Mr. Brady's equation between Blacks and Republicans was POLITICAL. In both cases there are populations of a minority group with a strong sense of identity concentrated in small areas. Both refuse to accept the rule of the elected representatives of the majority and are violently hostile to the security forces. Both riot and burn, provoking a response among the majority which further polarises the two communities.

6) It is true that many of the violent tactics of the present troubles were first used by Loyalists. After all, Loyalists bombed unmanned electricity stations in 1969, whereas the IRA didn't start blowing women and children to bits until 1971! An RUC man was indeed killed by Loyalists in 1969. This was the indefensible result of justified fears that the British government was intending to betray Ulster.

7) All the talk about "discrimination" cannot hide the fact that the strong Republican section of the Catholic population will NEVER accept British rule of ANY part of Ulster. This is the root of the problem.

There is a Protestant minority in Catholic Southern Ireland. In spite of the intimidation, discrimination and violence which have contributed to a drop from 10% of the population to 4%, the Protestants and former British Loyalists in Eire are loyal and peaceful citizens of the Irish state.

The Loyalist majority in Ulster have no intention of allowing their historic traditions and culture to be destroyed. The NF has always understood this and upheld their right to self-defence – even if it means clashes with the traitors in Westminster and their security forces.

It is a sad fact that religion and politics have become so entwined in Ulster. But the National Front is NOT sectarian. The first Organiser of the Belfast NF was David Riddlesdell, a Catholic Loyalist, whose tragic death in a car accident was a great loss to the Party.

As last year's YNF delegation to Belfast discovered, support for the NF among Loyalist workers is amazing. By contrast, while we may be inspired by the struggle of the Southern Irish for their national freedom we must see the irreconcilable clash between our respective nationalisms. The best we can hope for is probably separation leading to mutual respect.

So let's stick with our true friends and STAND BY LOYAL ULSTER!

NEWS FROM NIGERIA

A REPORT from Nigeria tells of a bank robbery where the robber was chased into a blind alley. When the pursuing police got there, the man had disappeared and the only thing left was a goat. Believing that the man had used some kind of witchcraft to change himself into a goat, they took the poor animal to court, tried it, found it guilty and took it out and shot it!

A NIGERIAN railway operator who caused a crash by allowing two trains to run on the same line told a court in Lagos what he did when he saw them hurtling towards each other:

"I threw up my hands and said to myself: What a way to run a railway!"

WE ALSO hear that Zimbabwe's Robert Mugabe gave his fellow Cabinet Minister Joshua Nkomo the elbow. Mr. Nkomo's reaction? "No thanks, I've already eaten the other one."

DANCING TREES

THE RED CHINESE authorities have told their 900 million subjects not to believe all they read in the papers, even though the same authorities decide what goes in the papers. This follows an admission in 1979 by the official Peoples' Daily that it "regularly lied", though this was blamed on the 'Gang of Four'.

This latest warning follows a spate of increasingly silly reports in the official Chinese Press. Last September, for example, many newspapers across the country reported that a tree in the province of Yunnan danced whenever music was played.

The Shansi Daily, not to be outdone, reported that its province boasted a rock which shouted for help. The Peking Evening News countered with two girls who could "snap tree branches with thought-power".

Then there was a general outbreak in dozens of papers all over China of reports of "hundreds of children" who could read with their armpits. "Eminent Scientists" and "independent observers" were quoted boasting that this outbreak of juvenile armpit-reading was "an important breakthrough for World science". Now the same newspapers have reported an official statement that the armpit readers are "basically impossible" and a hoax.

The other strange tales have also been denounced as "ridiculous" and "complete fabrications".

But after 30 years of swallowing Maoist Marxism dancing trees, shouting stones and reading with armpits must seem commonplace to the Chinese people!

Diary of a "Revolutionary"

Cut the scab off a big yellow and green boil shaving this morning. Surprising, as I was using Vanessa's facial hair removal creme at the time. As the blood trickled down onto my chin, it reminded me of the glorious on-going march of the revolutionary proletariat.

Vanessa and I attended another course at the Revolutionary Training Workshop on "Cultural Realignment and Integration with the Working Class".

Learnt how to adopt truly meaningful working-class traditions, such as dropping our H's, "farting", swearing, and gobbin' on the floor.

Also learnt some traditional working-class (non-racist, sexist or fascist) jokes: – Went to the Chemist the other day for some deodorant, didn't I? The bird behind the counter said: "Ball type?" So I replied, "No, it's for my arms, dear!"

– A funny sense of humour the plebs (sorry, the working-class) have, I still don't get that one, and Vanessa refuses to explain.

Borrowed Daddy's new Jag, so we went paper-selling in Hampstead (sorry, 'ampstead). Sold 3 copies of Revolutionary Worker. One to a really nice Brown Briton from Pakistan, one to a genuine working class tailor with a funny little hat on and long sideboards. Last one went to a horrid "skinhead" who tore it up, then tore ALL my papers up and said that if I was a "bloke" he'd "smash my teeth in". Vanessa giggled, so I went home and sulked in the East Wing snooker room.

POETS' CORNER

Blair Peach was a Bolshy,
One of Gluckstein's boys,
'Til he was fouly murdered
By reactionary goys.

Said Peachy: "Very well.
I'm not afraid to die.
I'll carry on the Party's work
In the land beyond the sky."

So he came up to Heaven,
Saw St. Peter with the keys
"Oh can I speak to Comrade God,
My name is Blair Peach, please?"

Said St. Peter to our Peachy,
"Are you humble and contrite?"
"I'm a 'friend' of Chanie Rosenberg."
"Oh well that will be all right."

The conditions up in Heaven
Our Peachy didn't like,
So he organised the angels
And brought them out on strike.

God walking in the garden
One evening rather late,
Who should he see but Peachy
Painting slogans on the gate?

So they brought him up for trial
Before the Holy Ghost,
For spreading disaffection
Amongst the Heavenly Host.

The verdict it was 'guilty'.
Said Peachy: "Very well."
He tucked his nightie round his knees
And he floated down to Hell.

Well several years have passed
And Peachy's doing well.
He's been made People's Commissar
Of the Soviet Socialist Hell.

The moral of this story
It isn't hard to tell:
If you want to be a Commie
You've got to go to Hell.

Industrial Front

THE National Front Trade Unionist organisation is on the move. NFTU Chairman is David Riley, a Directorate member and an active trade unionist. All National Front activists who are either union members or unemployed should register with the NFTU by writing to Mr. Riley, c/o 50 Pawsons Road, Croydon, Surrey CRO 2QF. Give name, address, occupation, union and any union position held.

As the White Workers' strike against cheap Black labour at Imperial Typewriters showed, there is a great deal the N.F. can do to help British workers. And as the Ulster Loyalist Workers' strike in 1974 made clear, industrial "muscle" can be used by patriots to change the course of history.

But the NFTU can only become that strong in the future by beginning the long process of organisation NOW. Join your union! Join the National Front Trade Unionists!

TRAINING SEMINARS

An important part of the early work of the NFTU group will be to help organise training seminars to spread detailed knowledge of NF economic policies to our members.

The first such seminar was held in London in March. The meeting was chaired by Mark Spong of the Party's Education and Training Department. Speakers included David Riley on organising local NFTU units; Nick Griffin on the threat to White workers and the nation as a whole from multi-national companies, and Ian Anderson on the development of "British" Capitalism.

Highlight of the afternoon was an inspiring film about the growth of producers' co-operatives in the Spanish Basque country, the "Mondragon Experiment". There is little doubt that workers co-ops will play an important role in the organisation of industry under a National Front government. They are particularly suited for medium size factories. Similar workshops, farms and retailers will be run by a revitalised individual and family sector. The government will have a large say in strategically vital heavy industry, high technology, power and transport.

More such seminars will be run in the near future and all NFTU supporters and NF activists should make a special effort to attend.

THE MONDRAGON EXPERIMENT

MONDRAGON is a town in the Spanish Basque country. In little more than 25 years, the people there have built up a producers' co-operative movement which employs thousands of people. The workers own the companies, they contribute individual capital stakes to them, and they elect the governing boards from their own ranks. The remarkable success of the venture shows that the "Mondragon Experiment" contains many important lessons for British Nationalists.

The movement started in 1956 when 5 graduates from the local technical college started ULGOR, a firm of 23 workers making paraffin cookers. Today, the ULGOR co-op, with 3,400 owner/employees, is Spain's largest manufacturer of household appliances.

Many more co-ops have since been set up. Applicants for membership have to pass an entrance exam and put in £2,700 of their own capital (this can be borrowed at low interest from the co-op bank). There is a long waiting list.

The workers decide the wages they can afford to pay themselves. 10% of profits then goes to the community, 20% goes into the firm's reserves and the remaining 70% is added to the workers' capital in their private accounts. This money cannot be withdrawn until they leave the firm. Many ordinary workers are now retiring with as much as £20,000.

If a firm makes a loss, some of it is met from its reserves, but some comes from the workers' own accounts. Every individual worker therefore has a vested interest in making the company a success.

The incentive to hard work given by ownership has made the Mondragon co-ops very profitable, with twice the output per man of comparable Spanish capitalist firms.

But this is not the only reason for the achievement. Each co-op is governed by the General Assembly of all its workers/owners. Every four year they elect the management from their own ranks. The managers do the work of running the firm in addition to their usual jobs. Although extra responsibility is rewarded, no-one is allowed to receive more than three times the minimum wage.

In this way, the Basque co-ops have healed the division between capital and labour, management and workers, which have plagued British industry for decades. This is the main reason why there has only been one short internal strike in 26 years.

The Mondragon co-ops have flourished. There are now 90 manufacturing companies, employing 18,000 people to make everything from machine tools to cookers, car spares to furniture. Four or five new co-ops open every year, but no one has failed so far.

There are also a number of "service co-ops", including schools, housing estates and a social security organisation. There is also a "People's Bank", which uses local savings to finance new co-ops with low interest loans.

Such co-ops offer a way to spread ownership of industry to a wide range of people. They allow the workers who produce the wealth to benefit directly from the products of their own labour. Most important of all, the co-op movement can put an end to destructive class warfare in industry, replacing disruption and the threat of Marxism with stability and economic freedom.

WHITE POWER

THE BLACK FIST HAS BEEN TURNED WHITE! When our last issue went to print, we were just £14.80 short of our £500 target. We wanted one last push to get us there, but your response has been overwhelming! Since the last issue we have received £92.76, taking us £77.97 OVER our target.

When we started the appeal, we were worried that £500 might be too ambitious. But we badly needed that much money. In order to get Nationalism Today established, we had to keep the cover price and bulk rates below the real cost. We could not have done this without generous extra donations. Your loyal support has enabled us to build up our circulation, which is now the largest of any Nationalist magazine in Britain!

So N.T. is now a powerful weapon in the armoury of the National Front and radical Nationalism. This has been possible only with your support. The Reds, the Bankers and the Blacks won't thank you, but we do!

Since the publication of our last issue we have received donations from:
Dave Patterson, Bristol – £1.96; Alan Campbell, Northern Ireland – £10; Anon. – £5; Cambridge Patriot – £2; Sheila Mc Govern, Southend – £3; M. Regan, Edinburgh – £5; R. Bellot, Southport – £5; Anon. – £6; G. Dawson, Rhyl – £10; Anon., Australia – £5; J. Good, London – £14; D. Merritt, Australia – £5; Anon. – £5; David, Belfast – £5; A. Coates, Barnstead – £2; Cambridge Patriot – £5; Cambridge Patriot – £3.80.

Once again, many thanks to all these, and to everyone who has contributed so generously to our Fighting Fund.

N.T. SALES LEAGUE

MORE SALES! BIGGER PROFITS! With our new bigger discount for bulk orders, many N.F. units have boosted their N.T. order and their own income at the same time.

Lambeth and Newham Branches are still at the top of the League, but other units, particularly Birmingham and Hackney, may soon overtake them!

Units who sell N.T. on the streets say that more and more members of the public are asking for the magazine by name. So make sure that YOUR selling teams have plenty of copies.

Our aim is to turn N.T. into a monthly magazine. To do that we must increase our circulation still further. Some units seem to be happy to sell all their copies quickly, without ordering any more. This means that the Branch is losing money from extra sales and we're not selling as many N.T.'s as we could do. So why not try to get in the next Top Ten list – INCREASE YOUR ORDER NOW!

The Top Ten Branches for selling Nationalism Today are:

1st Lambeth	6th Southwark
2nd Newham	7th Wandsworth
3rd Birmingham	8th Hemel Hempstead
4th Hackney	9th Hounslow
5th Leeds	10th Blackpool

THE MAJORITY OF MUGGERS ARE BLACK

BLACK MUGGERS are bringing terror to the streets of London. Last year Blacks carried out over 10,000 muggings in the nation's capital.

Crime statistics released by Scotland Yard reveal that 18,763 cases of robbery and other violent thefts took place in the London area during 1981. Out of 18,763 crimes in that category the assailants were identified as coloured in 10,399 cases – or 55.42 per cent of the total.

This compares with an estimated 13.8 per cent non-White proportion of the population of Greater London.

The assailants were said to be White in 4,967 cases, mixed gangs in 704, and there appearance was not known in 2,693.

The largest rise in street crime was in areas of high Immigrant population. Lambeth district – which includes Brixton – had the highest number of robbery and theft with violence cases: 2,493, an increase of 28 per cent. Hackney had 1,599 cases (up 47 per cent.) and Lewisham and Bromley 1,376 cases (up 87 per cent.).

For some reason the police refused to release detailed figures of the colour of the muggers' victims but they admitted the majority were White.

Mrs Leaver and Rachel

TERRIFIED mother Susan Leaver handed a bag containing £60 to Black muggers – to save her baby from a horror attack.

Mrs Leaver had just parked her car in the Arndale Shopping Centre in Wandsworth, South London, when the Black gang struck.

The Blacks grabbed her seven month old daughter, Rachel, and held a sharpened screwdriver to her stomach. They threatened to stab Rachel unless Mrs Leaver handed over her handbag. This she did and the Black gang ran off.

Said Mrs Leaver:

"I screamed after them but all they did was to turn and laugh at me."

AND THEIR VICTIMS ARE WHITE

70 YEAR OLD Mrs Eileen Shuttleworth was walking to her home in Foxborough Gardens, Lewisham, when she was mugged for the second time in a month.

A Black youth, aged about 17, charged her in the back, knocked her down and repeatedly punched her. He then snatched her handbag – which contained a small amount of cash and a building society account book – and ran off.

Mrs Shuttleworth, who suffered a broken collar bone, femur, wrist and arm in the attack, lay on the pavement for nearly half an hour before someone saw her.

A detective investigating the mugging said: "Mrs Shuttleworth, but for the grace of God, should be dead."

DANGER

MUGGERS AT WORK!

Mrs Pieros-Roche

61 YEAR OLD widow, Mrs Pieros-Roche, was left for dead with two skull fractures and broken fingers after an attack by a Black thug armed with a four-pound hammer.

The Black broke into her Clapham, South London, flat and attacked her with the hammer. Her fingers were broken as she tried to ward off blows to her head. She also sustained two skull fractures.

From a raid which almost ended in murder her attacker got away with just four pounds and a pension book.
